COMMANDER'S MESSAGE

"Volunteers do not necessarily have the time; they just have the heart."

--Elizabeth Andrew

First of all, a sad duty. For those who might not have heard, I must report to you that our Executive Committee member and Public Relations Officer, Lt. Mary Mayheu, passed away during April. For me, it was a stunning loss. First the diagnosis, and then a fight which on the surface seemed to be going well, and then the sudden reality of her passing. Our organization was better for her sojourn with us, let us be grateful for that, and support Steve and her family as we are able.

For the second time this year, we find the Executive Committee individually taking bits and pieces of an organizational role, deciding who can write a bit of copy, who knows someone at the Pulse or the Advocate, when are things due, etc. We had to do that earlier, with the duties of the Administrative Officer, when that office went unfilled entering the watch year. There is a saying, "If you want something done, ask a busy person." The members of the Executive Committee continue to just add that little bit more, and we are getting some help from the membership. Michelle Anderson handling social events and meetings and Sandy King volunteering to coordinate the Annual Rendezvous come to mind. We also have a committee working on the District Rendezvous for October which is making good progress. But we could still use some additional help.

For a number of years, I used to join a number of organizations, but only on a superficial level. I would pay my dues, read the magazine, and hope that it was doing some good. Well, after a while I realized that it was unfulfilling, that there was something missing. I had to narrow my scope and deepen my commitment. I looked across my interests, and decided that boating safety was an important focus and found a way to help. As we continue to see the death rates in boating accidents decline over the decades, I know I have contributed to that, and it's what sustains me through all the work over the years. We all joined the Squadron for different reasons, probably multiple reasons, some social, some educational, some to give something back to the community, but over time, the real payoff is in what we can do for each other and the community at large.

So if you would like to take a little piece, talk to me or any of the Executive Committee members and we'll find a role that is "right sized" just for you. Another quote in closing, this one from Winston Churchill:

"We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give".

Fair Winds,

Bob Stierna

SAFETY ON THE WATER

AVOIDING COLLISIONS WITH KAYAKS

In the past few years, there have been several tragic examples of small boats, notably kayaks, which were run down by larger, fast-moving boats. A group of prominent engineers recently presented the paper, "Visibility Factors in Small boat Collisions," at the 2012 International Marine Forensics Symposium sponsored by the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers. This paper offers some good suggestions on how to avoid running over small boats.

The suggestions on how to avoid being run over were based on a series of test on the water using volunteers in kayaks and powerboats. Researchers found that kayaks aren't likely to be spotted by a powerboat until they're a quarter of a mile away, which can quickly lead to an "extremis condition." The sooner a small boat is spotted, the better.

Seventy-five percent of the powerboat operators first reported seeing "paddle flash" when they saw the boat. A white or light colored paddle blade was much easier to see than a dark blade. The remaining 25 percent saw the luminous jersey that was being worn by the volunteers.

Among the recommendations to kayakers—

- Carry an audible signaling device.
- Wear fluorescent life vests or shirts.
- Use paddles with white or light colored blades.
- Avoid kayaking in areas with high boat traffic.
- Use flags that can be mounted on kayaks.

Conversely, for owners of larger boats: wear sunglasses; keep a proper lookout; and, be especially alert in areas where you are likely to encounter smaller craft.

FROM YOUR EDUCATION OFFICER

Sail class is underway with five students with widely divergent backgrounds and with five instructors teaching the course in segments. This is an exciting course because of the knowledge the students and instructors bring to the course to teach each other. I am anxious to get on the water with the students in June as soon as possible after the conclusion of the course. The sixth and final instructor will be my sailboat. I can't wait for this on-the-water class.

The ABC course will be held June 10-13 in the evenings at NWTC. I hope to see lots of students who want to get out on the water and put into practice what they have learned right away. When the course has been offered in April there is a lag time between learning and applying what has been learned. We will offer an on-the-water segment to this course as well.

Now that the snow has finally melted, along with the ice on the bay, we can see that the upside of this horrible winter is MORE WATER in all the great lakes. I am thrilled about all of the expanded boating possibilities because of the higher water. This will certainly contribute to a safer boating season. Living where we do limits our time on the water but I believe that this makes that time all the sweeter than our counterparts who live in warmer climates. Here's to a safe and fun boating season for all.

FROM YOUR EXECUTIVE OFFICER

SQUADRON VESSEL EXAMINERS RE-CERTIFIED

Two of our VSEs attended the workshop at D-10's spring conference and were re-certified: Bob DeNoto and Alan Wentworth. The rest of our VSEs were re-certified at our own workshop 26 April: Bill Galligan, Lou Pasquesi, Bob Stierna and myself.

We need more VSEs!

We have lost a few examiners over the last few years. So has the USCG Auxiliary. More trained examiners are needed. There are so many recreational boats around Door County that need VSCs. Are you interested or do you know a member who may be interested? Give me a call.

At the workshop we firmed up the VSC schedule through June. You'll find it in the calendar. We hope every member cares about a VSC. If the marina dates don't work for you or yours is a trailer boat, call one of our VSEs for an appointment at your boat.

Bob DeNoto	493-0287	Bill Galligan	743-2316

FLARE SHOOT AND FIRE EXTINGUISHER DEMO AND PRACTICE

The date for the event at Sturgeon Bay Yacht Club had to be changed. It will take place Saturday 14 June from 1300 to 1500.

BOAT SHOW AT HARBOR CLUB

An in-the-water boat show will take place Saturday and Sunday 21-22 June. Skipper Bud's is our Brunswick partner with whom we have a strong and growing relationship. Our squadron was asked to provide an information booth. On Saturday, we will staff the booth at Harbor Club and offer VSCs there, even as VSCs are conducted at Center Point. Our picnic is set for Sunday, so we will not provide a booth that day at Harbor Club.

GREAT LAKES WATER LEVELS

Lakes Superior, Michigan-Huron and St. Clair are 14, 11 and 7 inches, respectively, above what their level was this time last year. Lakes Erie and Ontario are both 6 inches above their levels of a year ago. Lakes Superior and Michigan-Huron are predicted to climb 4 inches each over the next 30 days. Lake St. Clair will rise 3 inches over next month, while Lakes Erie and Ontario are both projected to rise 2 inches.

Fayette - existing dock open as usual for 2014 season

According to an article in the Great Lake Cruising Club Newsletter there had been plans to rebuild the Fayette docks this spring, but those plans are suspended. The marina will be open for boats, once the ice is out, as it has been in past years, no reservations, no electricity, a long floating dock which may require rafting off to accommodate all the visiting boats, etc. So, please make your cruising plans to come and visit the beautiful Fayette Park.

The current funding has reduced the scale of the proposed project for 2015 to focus on safety items. This is planned to include rebuilding the long floating dock, and adding electric service at the dock. The electric service will eliminate the risk of Carbon Monoxide poisoning, which has been a significant concern from the use of engines and generators in close quarters by boats at the dock. The design of marina shore power systems is also under review to comply with the revised electrical codes to eliminate Electrical Shock Drowning, for the new installation. Click here for more information on Electric Shock Drowning. (Thanks to Terry Keating for submitting this article).

MAY MONTHLY QUIZ

SAFETY—ON BOARD IN PORT

SURGE PROTECTION DEVICES (SPD)

Most of us keep electronic devices, such as the TVs and PCs plugged into surge protectors to safe guard them from electrical surges, e.g., lightening. It would follow that we use surge protectors when on board and connected to shore power.

Statement:

When the vessel is connected to AC current via shore power we can safely use the same surge protector that we use in our home.

True. Your home surge protector is perfectly safe while your boat is connected to AC current;

False. A marine-rated surge protector is needed.

Note: VSEs need not respond because we covered this question during our workshop.

Email your response and comments to the Scuttlebutt Editor. The answer will appear in June.
